

MINT INCLUDED IN DOW JONES SUSTAINABILITY INDICES FOR THE 4th CONSECUTIVE YEAR

Minor International Public Company Limited (“MINT”) announced today that it is included in the 2017 Dow Jones Sustainability Emerging Markets Index. This is the 4th consecutive year that MINT is recognized for sustainability leadership in the Consumer Services sector.

The Dow Jones Sustainability Indices were launched in 1999 as the first global sustainability benchmarks. The indices track the performance of the world's leading companies in terms of economic, environmental, governance and social performance factors. The indices serve as benchmarks for investors who integrate sustainability considerations into their portfolios, and provide an effective engagement platform for companies who want to adopt sustainable best practices. Each year, over 3,000 global companies are invited to participate in this corporate sustainability assessment. The 2017 Dow Jones Sustainability Index Emerging Markets selects top 10% of 800 largest emerging markets companies based on total sustainability score in each industry. MINT's inclusion is a testament to its solid progress in delivering its sustainability strategy.

William E Heinecke, Chairman and Group CEO of MINT commented, "We are honored to be included in this highly-respected index for four consecutive years. It is greatly rewarding to see our sustainability efforts being recognized globally. As we continue to expand, we are committed to the execution of our sustainability strategies and developments to ensure that we create a positive impact to the economy, society and environment of the countries we operate in".

Sustainability development is an integral part of MINT's business strategy, with full support from the Board of Directors and senior management, and is being executed at all levels of the organization. MINT's sustainability drivers include driving people development, engaging end-to-end customer experience, committing to long-term and sustainable partnerships, managing environmental impact, fostering social responsibility mindset and driving a corporate culture that practices good governance to ensure long-term growth and sustainability.
